

TRANSFORMING YOUR MAJOR BY UNDERSTANDING CONTEXT

Mizzou's HDFS Minor in Human Development and Family Science prepares students to understand and apply the science of individual development and interpersonal interactions

✖ COMPLEMENT ANOTHER DEGREE

- Gain specialized knowledge about development and relationships that you can apply in other majors/careers

✖ LEARN THE SCIENCE OF GROWTH AND RELATIONSHIPS

- Use research and theory to understand diverse life experiences as we age and interact within social contexts

ENHANCE ANY MAJOR, INCLUDING...

- Nursing
- Health Professions
- Education
- Social Work
- Business
- Psychology
- Sociology
- Anthropology
- Journalism
- Communication

“Minoring in HDFS helped me apply knowledge of development and relationships to my personal life and interactions with others”

BUILD THE MINOR TO SUIT YOUR INTERESTS

- Three required courses
 - » Foundations of Family Science
 - » Principles of Human Development
 - » Multicultural Study of Children and Families
- Two elective courses
 - » Courses in development across the lifespan
 - » Courses in intimate and family relationships
 - » Courses in stress and poverty in families

Offered in campus, online, and/or self-paced formats

QUESTIONS? CONTACT:

Kelly Warzinik, MS
Academic Advisor
573-882-3521
WarzinikK@missouri.edu

 /MIZZOUHDFS

 @MIZZOUHDFS

 @MIZZOU_HDFS

LEARN MORE

hdfs.missouri.edu/ug_minor.html

Human Development and Family Science
University of Missouri